SUICIDE TERRORISM

David Harel recently retired from the Israeli Security Agency (ISA) after 23 years of service in a number of counter-terrorism and protective security posts. Mr. Harel advises ASERO clients on strategic solutions for security preparedness and provides internationally recognized training on all aspects of security from emergency preparedness to crisis response plans.

Prior to joining ASERO, Mr. Harel was head of international relations for the protection and security division of the ISA. His responsibilities included the developing and overseeing strategic international relations with security agencies worldwide.

Mr. Harel served in senior field positions in all ISA duty areas: dignitary protection, aviation security and installation security. He also has several years of experience in both intelligence assessment and risk management. Mr. Harel's service includes a three year period at the ISA's security and combat academy where he commanded the course for security managers. He has provided security assistance to several federal law enforcement agencies in the United States as well as many other countries around the world.

In addition to his role at the ISA, Mr. Harel has held many high-level security positions throughout his career including: commander of training programs for security managers at the ISA academy (1998-2001); regional security manager for El Al security operations in Scandinavia (1995-1998); intelligence branch agent, ISA (1991-1995); Philippine Embassy security manager (1988-1991); dignitary protection unit member (1983-1987); sky marshal, El Al Airlines (1981-1983); and military service in the elite paratroop brigade, Israel Defense Force (1978-1981).

"Global Jihad" and the dangerous phenomenon of suicide terrorism threaten the very fiber of free society. This seminar aims not only at providing in-depth analysis of the phenomena necessary to understand the threat, but also includes security doctrines developed to combat these specific threats.

COLLATERAL DAMAGE- The Enemy Within

Robert Douglas is the Executive Director of the National POLICE Suicide Foundation. He is a former chaplain for the Baltimore MD Fraternal Order of Police Lodge #3, ATF Chaplain in Washington DC and currently pastors the Jenkins Memorial Church in Riviera Beach MD. Mr. Douglas earned a Masters of Theology from St. Mary's Seminary University in Baltimore. Suicide within the ranks of law enforcement is not a new problem. It is expected by the public that law enforcement officers deal with death, misery and the very worst of the human condition. Law enforcement administrators attempt to provide officers with the best physical tools available. The best radios, weapons, vehicles and bullet resistant vests: but there is a void in offering the training and awareness that can "bullet proof" the mind. It is no secret that depression, substance abuse, domestic violence and suicide can be the silent partners of law enforcement. The goal of this training will be to openly discuss this sensitive subject and put aside the shame and the stigma that too often makes suicide sound like the invisible enemy.

CHILD ABUSE ISSUES-Are we protecting our children?

Sergeant Terry Hall (ret) has spent the better part of his 30 year police career with the Indianapolis Police Department fighting for the rights of children. He served in the Sex Crimes Branch for seven years and was the director of the "Good Touch-Bad Touch Program" for the prevention of child abuse and neglect. Sgt Hall will discuss Prevention vs Apprehension issues with child abuse as well as the Myths of Molestation and Judicial Neglect.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PREVENTION

Mark Wynn is an internationally renowned trainer of police, prosecutors, judges and victim advocates. He motivates his audience to look at domestic violence through the eyes of a 20 year police officer and ten year survivor. He will discuss the importance of an ongoing commitment to insure individual civil rights by focusing on why victims are reluctant to report, why they stay, why offenders batter and how it impacts children. He further inspires his audience to understand the victim's lack of protection and loss of trust in the criminal justice system as well as who pays the price for failing the victims. He draws a clear connection of the power and control used in terrorism to domestic violence and challenges the audience to change the system to insure the safety of the victim, the police and the community.
